Jack & Jill helps cancer patients make the most of their time with their children

A Decade of Forever Memories

Linda Bachman was thinking about her son, Jack, when her husband, Doug, found out his melanoma had returned and was untreatable.

It was just a question of how long he had, said Bachman, the director of the Office of University Experiential Learning at the University of Georgia. Bachman was wondering how she would explain all of this to her first-grader. So she made an appointment to the Office of University Experiential Learning at the University of Georgia, the Atlanta-based Jack & Jill Late Stage Cancer Foundation 10 years ago.

It was just a question of how long he had, said Bachman, the director of the Office of University Experiential Learning at the University of Georgia. Bachman was wondering how she would explain all of this to her first-grader. So she made an appointment to the Office of University Experiential Learning at the University of Georgia, the Atlanta-based Jack & Jill Late Stage Cancer Foundation 10 years ago. Bachman returned and was untreatable.

“At Rollins, you do public health.”

The Executive MPH Program at Emory University is a distance-based program geared to the needs of busy, mid-career professionals. Executive MPH students attend a leading school of public health and learn from top academics and practitioners in the field. The program is designed for working professionals and allows students to work and study at the same time. Full-time students can finish in 18 months, and part-time students can take up to 30 months to complete the degree.

Online Program:

The online Executive MPH program offers the same curriculum and flexibility as the traditional program. Students can complete the degree in 24 months, with the option to complete the program in as little as 18 months. The online program is ideal for working professionals who want to advance their careers in public health.

Executive MPH Program:

The Executive MPH program is a part-time, distance-learning program designed for professionals who want to advance their careers in public health. The program is offered in both online and traditional formats.

Looking to make a difference, make a change or advance your career? Have you considered public health? Did you know that we have one of the top schools of public health here right in Atlanta and you can get your Master of Public Health (MPH) degree while you maintain your career?

The Executive MPH Program at Emory University is a distance-based program geared to the needs of busy, mid-career professionals. Executive MPH students attend a leading school of public health and learn from top academics and practitioners in the field. The program is designed for working professionals and allows students to work and study at the same time. Full-time students can finish in 18 months, and part-time students can take up to 30 months to complete the degree.

Online Program:

The online Executive MPH program offers the same curriculum and flexibility as the traditional program. Students can complete the degree in 24 months, with the option to complete the program in as little as 18 months. The online program is ideal for working professionals who want to advance their careers in public health.

Executive MPH Program:

The Executive MPH program is a part-time, distance-learning program designed for professionals who want to advance their careers in public health. The program is offered in both online and traditional formats.

Pocket elimination and bone regeneration has never been easier.

Failing implants can be saved! Your teeth were meant to last a lifetime and we are here to prove it.

LANAP (laser assisted new attachment procedure)

Free consultation with this ad

Reserve your seat now! 800-670-0978